MOTION IS MADE BY ARGENTINE; MIGHT BRING GERMANY IN

(International News Service.)

GENEVA, Dec. 4.—Official announcement was made today that Argentina had withdrawn from the League of Nations. Tension between Argentina and the league dates back to Wednesday, when President Hymans of the league assembly was charged with giving an offense recognition to any acts made by the Argentine delegation.

Argentine delegates made further protests against this treatment and were supported by other South American countries.

(United Press.)

GENEVA, Dec. 4.—All independent members of the world body, except Germany, Austria and the Germans of Switzerland, will have to make specific declarations of their attitude and they will be asked to do so speedily under a motion submitted to the League Secretariat by Argentina.

Should the motion prevail, it probably would result in Germany becoming a member and the United States would have to notify the League it didn't desire membership.

CITY MANAGERS

Two hundred thirteen cities are now being directed by city managers.

City management is nothing more than the operation of city government according to the principles of business. That idea instead of the old political boss idea of municipal government is an experiment in governmental fad, was made evident when 300 experienced city executives from 9 conventions recently in session here.

The mere fact that these men were getting together for the common good of their collective communities was in itself an indictment of the idea of the boss system. The old political system of municipal government still has staunch defenders—and they may be right—but whoever heard of the politically chosen mayors of 300 cities holding a convention for the purpose of trading ideas and experiences?

The manager plan of municipal government has developed a group of experts who know cities as other experts know the human body or the solar system. It is based on the idea that the city government is the largest business institution in any city; and, therefore, deserves expert management instead of changeable management by political organizations.

Politicians have claimed that the city manager plan is not democratic in that it centralizes authority in an appointed official. But it is pure democracy compared to the autocratic political boss systems that it has supplanted in many communities. The political boss is the invisible government responsible to no one; the city manager is a boss, too, but a visible boss, directly responsible to the community.

The city manager plan was born in Staunton, Va., 12 years ago, and it is not recorded that any city abandoned the plan after once getting used to it.

TOYS

If you look over a list of toy suggestions for Christmas in newspaper advertisements, you will find that seemingly, the natures of little girls haven't changed much since the first prehistoric child hugged to her breast a piece of wood cut in the image of a baby.

But boys have changed a lot. They disdain the toys of their fathers and are playing with chemistry and electricity and wireless. Their fathers received copies of Jules Verne for Christmas and were thrilled by the imaginary wonders unfolded therein. But the boys are outwondering Verne with messages sent through space by means of wireless outfits bought for them as Christmas toys!

For girls the toy stores advertise dolls, dolls' clothes, dolls' jewelry, tea sets, beds, cradles, chairs, washsets, etc. The eternally maternal feminine unceasing and unchanging! The dolls of one generation are the playthings also of the next. And there are not many little girls who are playing today with the dolls their mothers saved from their own childhood?

But the modern breed of boy wants none of the old fashions. For him the toy stores advertise chemical sets, and electrical sets, and toy airplanes that fly, and wireless senders and receivers. From the books of instruction that come with these toys, he learns a scientific language that is Greek to his backward old dad. He talks of analines and hybohydrates and precipitations and the magnetic pole.

He is a wonder-kid this avernge boy of 1920, who makes playthings of elements that Isaac Newton and Galileo scarcely dreamed of.

SNOBBISH WOMEN

It is not wise to condemn a widespread human trait without first stopping to ask whether it may not be better in some way than it seems.

Such a trait is snobbishness, which is generally believed to be more prevalent with women than with men, and which is almost universally condemned. May it not have its uses?

If a woman is snobbish it means that she seeks the company of the most successful people that she can do with, and that means that she, or perhaps her daughter, will have a better chance to marry a successful man. For as a rule it takes brains and energy to make a man of a wholly successful. So a woman's snobbishness is a kind of blind, instinctive search for the strongest father he can get for her children or her grandchildren. She may be sure, she may understand nothing, and what she wants so little that she sometimes lets external trappings blind her to the real strength and body that she seeks, or may keep up her social attitude long after its significance for a new generation is over.

Men have always had more public life than women; they have had to fight shoulder to shoulder and co-operate with others of their sex as women have not. This makes far more democracy. But they, too, are snobbish, and their mothers and sisters do their best to fight off women whom they regard as inferior.

Thus the snobbishness of exclu-

MILLERS SAY IT ISN'T THE QUESTION

Assuming in the millers, that is not the question at all. It is: Can the every cheapest millers to grind now while they cannot sell at present owing to conditions that are affecting every line of industry, and which cannot be stayed in whole future who because of lack of storage capacity and of its perishable nature?

Kansas is the greatest flour-producing state in the union, save one. Milling is the largest industry in the state. Kansas flour mills have a capacity of 50,000 barrels a day, and employ thousands of men. And millers themselves estimate that the mills of the state are not operating to above 50 or 60 per cent of capacity at present.

Not more than 5 or 10 per cent of Kansas flour is consumed in the state. The rest is an important part of the food supply of the country.

Real Question is Simple One

The real question before Industrial Court investigators seems to be a simple one: "Can the mills get orders for flour by accepting prices in accordance with the low price of wheat ,or can't they?"

And the answer is of intimate interest to kitchen flour bins all over the country, as well as to the hundreds of Kansas workmen facing the winter without jobs.

"The real inside of the thing," say the mill owners, "is that people are buying just as little of everything right now as they possibly can. Flour mills aren't the only institutions affected. Every other line of business tells the same story."

The millers say the flour cannot be ground now and stored against a future demand, because the warehouses will not hold it, also because it will deteriorate.

"Good reason why it will deteriorate," snorted a workman. "The wheat is hard wheat and has to be soaked in water. The more water they put in it the heavier it is. You pay for the water, along with the flour. But it doesn't keep as well. During the war the government set a limit of 13 per cent water. But now the millers are putting from 18 to 25 per cent water into the flour. If you buy a 24-pound sack of it and keep it a month, it will be three pounds lighter than what you paid for."

ABANDONED SCHOONER THROWN UP ON BEACH BELOW CORONADO BCH.

NEW SMYRNA, Dec. 4.—Abandoned after having been burned at sea, a three-masted schooner from which the name had entirely disappeared, was washed up on the beach at Red Shell, six miles below Coronado, a few days ago and is now being salvaged by Roy Galbreath, Lawrence Carr and W. E. Webster, by whom the abandoned wreck was first discovered.

The schooner had carried a cargo of lumber and approximately 25,000 feet of good lumber has been taken from the ship.

Where, when and why the schooner was burned and abandoned is not known and probably never will be known. The upper part of the ship is burned away and the salvagers have been unable to find any trace of the name or owners. It is probable the schooner caught fire at sea, but whether the crew was ever picked up and saved is not known.

The ship is about 110 feet long and 30-feet beam. An effort has been made to learn through the United States shipping board of any report of the burning and abandoning of such a ship, but this federal department has no such report on file.

Reduction in Fire Insurance Rates and Electric Plant for Beach Favored by Henry Horn

Railway Fire Equipment Will Reduce the Rates

"As soon as the new engine and new hose arrive," Chief Horn writes, "and I understand it has been shipped, I will have a meeting of a meeting of underwriters, for the purpose of readjustment of the fire insurance rates. Signed, Henry Horn, A. Hoag of the law, Secretary and Fire Control Chief of Hoag & Wilson, in St Nicholas, Florida, said: "Mr. Horn is right. If we can get some reduction," he continued, "it will be better for all concerned. Insurance interests can afford quite handsomely for his initiative and will take it; the agent will simply reach down himself, and the insurance will be increased and the underwriters will receive more money. It pleases me. Many people would then enjoy insurance who take the chance of carrying their own risk now."

"When we get our water plant and fire protection in perfect operation," said Mr. Horn, "I shall favor the immediate of getting an electric light plant, or else one of the first things we will do will be improving and not stop going ahead for a minute until we are completely with all the necessary improvements and conveniences that will make our town truly modern in every practical way. It is not always understood that a night's sleep cannot get upon rock for substantial improvements which the government of the future will make to be inspiring. Many progressive cities get what is needed for the convenience, pleasure and health of their citizens and have lots of bonds in process therefore. In this way the present generation only takes care of the interest as it arises and while closely considering the generations of the future, who will also use these improvements and who will be glad to thank them, as they should. I am enclosing a log map of twelve lots water main from the water plant on Strickland avenue to Main street and to the end of the next improvements the people will be demanding. There is no doubt but what would accomplish great possibilities of our fire fighting organization that would be quickly appreciated by the insurance companies. It would prove a strong lever in reducing the cost of insurance. If this town undertakes a water enterprise it will be wise to consider the Halifax main into that territory. Then no property would be more than about twelve hundred feet from the Main water supply in case of fire."

WHITE ASHBURN HAS A GALA HOME COMING FROM IOWA

White Ashburn, who arrived with Mrs. Anderson and a party of neighbors and friends from their home town, Sheldon, Iowa, is now substantially settled in Ormond.

After Mr. Anderson had spent a season here six years ago he came back the next season, bringing with him a party of 35 of his neighbors. Ever since he and several of his friends have been among the most popular of Beach visitors.

Mr. Anderson is a man of affairs and takes a lively interest in state and national politics. He says the people of his state hope President-Elect Hardind will select his secretary of agriculture from Iowa, as that department will undoubtedly be reorganized in the cabinet and in that portfolio his state they have three prominent aspirants for the position: Henry Wallace of Des Moines, editor of a widely circulated farm paper; J. R. Howard of Waterloo, county head of the state farm bureau, and Charles Curtis of Ames, who is prominently identified with the Iowa State Agricultural college. Mr. Anderson says all are all right, but that his first choice is Mr. Wallace.

Reduction in Fire Insurance Rates and Electric Plant for Beach Favored by Harry Horn

Believes Fire Equipment Will Reduce the Rates

"As soon as the new engine for our fire department arrives, and I understand it has been shipped, I will favor the calling of a meeting of underwriters to consider a readjustment of fire insurance rates," said Attorney Harry A. Harp of the law, insurance and real estate firm of Harp & Wilson, to a News representative this morning. "If we can get our rates reduced," he continued, "it will be better for all concerned. The property owners can afford more protection for his buildings and will help it; the agent will secure much more business and his commissions will be increased and the merchants will receive more money in premiums. Many people would then carry insurance who take the chance of carrying their own risk now.

"When we get our water plant and fire protection in perfect operation," said Mr. Horn, "I shall favor the consideration of getting an electric light plant on this side of the river. We should keep on progressing and not stop going ahead for a minute until our community is provided with all necessary improvements and conveniences that will make our town truly modern in every practical way. It is but always necessary that a municipality should pay spot cash for substantial improvements which the generations of the future will share as in enjoying. Many progressive cities get what is needed for the convenience, advantage and health of their cities and issue long time bonds in payment therefore. In this way the present generation only takes care of the interest as it accrues, while those constituting the generations of the future, who will also see these improvements also share in the paying for them, as they should. I am satisfied a big ten or twelve inch water main from the water plant on Grandview avenue to Main street will be one of the most improvements the people will be demanding. There is no doubt but this would materially strengthen the possibilities of our fire fighting organization that would be quickly recognized by the insurance company and would prove a strong lever in reducing the cost of insurance. If Seabreeze continues a water customer it will be wise to continue this large main into that territory. Then no property would be more than about twelve hundred feet from the main water supply in time of fire need."

A plea was then made for money to pay for the new bed which the club has purchased for the Children's Home in Jacksonville and for the Associated Charities in Daytona.

His Reasons Why Beach Is Fine

"Retiring months, millionaire [illegible] and [illegible] publisher of the city of spires, [illegible] Chambers of Philadelphia, Pa., [illegible] he has adopted for his wife's [illegible] and those who have known him as a winter visitor at Daytona Beach for the past dozen years say he longs [illegible]

He was for many years publisher of the Jeffersonian (County) Journal, but he has retired from active business, but is still an accredited correspondent of Leslie's magazine and other standard publications. What writing he does now is mostly for pastime and amusement. Physically and mentally, however, he is as alert and lively as a cricket despite of the fact he has been a grandfather—well, he does not like to tell—for how many years.

"Uncle John," as he is familiarly called by his old friends who have met him here for many winters, is a most loyal friend and ardent admirer of this place as a pleasure and health resort.

"For years I have been traveling about the country a good deal," confided Mr. Chambers to the News representative, "and I have visited many of the most known resorts in the North and East. I have spent since time to 27 different Florida cities, and I think I know something about most of them. I must say, however, that I prefer Daytona Beach to all of the others. First, it has the longest beach in the world; second, it has the widest beach in the world, and third, it is the one that was chosen by Oldfield, De Palma, Milton and other famous automobile racers as the course upon which they sought to break the world's records in their contests against time. I was a witness to all these wonderful trials. Because of the saline qualities of the air and ocean here, this is the most healthful resort in the United States. I never knew a person who had an eruptive disease of any kind who took the salt water baths regularly here who was not either cured outright or very materially benefited. Remember, we are higher here by several feet than any of the surrounding resorts. That the tourists coming here each year are the equal of any in the world, in refinement and intelligence.

"Our wonderful new Auditorium is a splendid attraction for those fond of literary and other high class entertainments. The talent appearing there is the best that can be secured, and the management is superb."

Many Campers Are Using Temporary Camping Grounds

Daytona Beach and Seabreeze are in need of better camping grounds for tourists. Here and there a tent springs up like a mushroom over night, and at the regular camping ground there are now eight families. The campers here say that the conveniences and comforts are not what they might be, however they all report that they are enjoying the season, except that they have found some of the nights a little cold.

The colony at present consists of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Blaisdell and three children of Groton, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Garside and two children of Bourbon, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Watson and two children of Detroit, Mich.; Mr. and Mrs. J. F. BUTTER YOUR BREAD

"She brought forth butter in a lordly dish," reads a famous passage in the Book of Judges.

"Barzillai brought forth honey and butter for David."

Job wrote of "the brooks of honey and butter."

In primitive communities they fill a churn with milk, ram it from a crock of gobs and rock it back and forth until the butter is churned.

Dresser cools. It requires the touch. No one ever ate unsalted when a harvesting was held under the elms, and he was told he likes butter. For nearly everyone does like butter.

Butter is more than a necessity. It is a joy.

Margarine cannot take its place. It may look like butter, smell like it, taste like it. But something seems to be missing. Just as substituting cocoa is for missing when grocer is out on potatoes. Instead of butter, there's margarine. Or margarine. Somebody needs to the contract he may be persuaded that grocer is "just as good."

Dairies may be cranky. But the cow for it is not greedy a thing for a luxury.

Scientists have discovered that vital health depends on certain substances known as vitamines. Some of these are present in fresh vegetables. They are present in large quantities in butter. The chief sustenance thing for butter is well founded.

PELLAGRA AND POVERTY

It was Colonel Harper, the sanitarian, who made the tabbing of the Toronto canal possible by abolishing yellow fever and malaria from the Isthmus, who said that if charged with the health of a community and allowed only one sanitary measure to keep down health he would choose the filling wages.

What he meant was that poor people suffer most from disease. Official investigations prove the correctness of this conclusion over and over again. The seven facts "revealed the vital body of wage earners" that with a study of the [illegible] of the dread disease pellagra, made by the United States Public Health Service.

The service found that the prevalence of pellagra depends almost entirely upon the amount of family income.

It found 1,311 persons in a special study it made of one disease where earnest was less than $5 per half month. Among these 1,311 persons were 38 cases of pellagra, or a rate of 57.7 per thousand. Among the 1,311 persons whose half month income was between $5 and $7.50, there were 27 cases, or at a rate of 20 per thousand. Among the group earning $7 to $9.99 per half month, the rate per thousand dropped to 12.8. Among the 878 at $10.00 group, the rate dropped to 6.7 per thousand, while for those earning $15 and over, the rate was only 1.6 per thousand.

The conclusion is obvious. Poverty breeds disease, and hygiene and lack of variety in food result disease. The abolition of pellagra is merely a question of the wage scale, just as tuberculosis is a question of [illegible]'s income. Men cannot keep decent jobs and women and children to live below a decent subsistence level without society having to pay the bill in [illegible] disease and death.

Pellagra and poverty do not pay.

WOODSIDE

William M. Wood—he of the American Woolen company, who was indicted for profiteering, but who escaped prosecution because a jury found that cloth and tax clothing—has a convincing explanation for opulence.

It is that the "public" is required.

"The public," he says, "has rebelled against the high cost of living and has rebelled against unemployment until the situation is subdued to the satisfaction of the public."

It's simple. The "public" (which, of course, excludes skilled mechanics, [illegible]) has rebelled and the mill hands of Woodside have been [illegible].

"She brought forth butter in a lordly dish," reads a famous passage in the Book of Judges.

"Barzillia brought forth honey and butter for David."

Job wrote of "the brooks of honey and butter."

In primitive communities they fill a skin with milk, rang it from a tripod of poles and rock it back and forth until the butter is churned.

However made, it engages the fancy. No one ever was annoyed when a buttercup was held under his chin, and he was told he likes butter. For nearly everyone does like butter!

Butter is more than a necessity. It is a joy.

Margarine cannot take its place. It may look like butter, smell like it, taste like it. But something seems to be missing. Just as something seems to be missing when gravy is put on potatoes instead of butter. Every youngster recognizes that, however much to the contrary he may be persuaded that gravy is "just as good."

PELLAGRA AND POVERTY

It was Colonel Gorgas, the sanitarian, who made the building of the Panama canal possible by abolishing yellow fever and malaria from the Isthmus, who said that if charged with the health of a community and allowed only one sanitary measure to bring about health he would choose doubling wages.

What he meant was that poor people suffer most from disease. Official investigations prove the correctness of this conclusion over and over again. The latest facts presented deal with a study of the prevalence of the dread disease pellagra, made by the United States Public Health Service.

The service found that the prevalence of pellagra depends almost entirely upon the amount of family income.

It found 1,312 persons in a special study it made of this disease whose income was less than $4 per half month. Among these 1,312 persons were 56 cases of pellagra, or a rate of 42.7 per thousand. Among the 1,457 persons whose half month income was between $4 and $7.99, there were 22 cases, or at a rate of 20 per thousand. Among the group earning $8 to $9.99 per half month, the rate per thousand dropped to 12.3. Among the $10 to $13.99 group, the rate dropped to 4.1 per thousand, while for those earning $14 and over, the rate was only 2.4 per thousand.

The conclusion is obvious. Poverty means ignorance, bad hygiene and lack of variety in food—result disease. The abolition of pellagra is merely a question of the wage rate, just as infant mortality is a question of father's income. Men cannot force owner men (and women and children) to live below a decent subsistance level without society having to pay the bill in ignorance, disease and death.

GERMANY IS SAID TO BE PLANNING COUP AFTER SILESIA VOTE

(The Associated Press)

WARSAW, Dec. 4.—Evidence that Germany has planned armed occupation of Upper Silesia if the proposed plebiscite in that territory should favor Poland, is said to have been given the allied governments by Poland.

Newspapers here have just published copies of documents said to have been intercepted by Poland. According to these, the sixth German army corps headquarters at Breslau was to equip an expedition. One detachment of this was to proceed into Silesia in the guise of demobilized soldiers and there they were to spread propaganda to support the German cause prior to the plebiscite.

Other detachments were to mobilize 12 days before the day of voting and to wait at various points of vantage. If the plebiscite favored Poland, these forces were to wreck factories and other industrial installations.

Aid also was to be given the German cause in some way by a secret league of former German officers and soldiers known as "Sprag," the name of a river. This organization was to co-operate with the sixth army corps headquarters.

The plebiscite in Silesia has again been postponed indefinitely, said a dispatch from Warsaw under date of November 28. Some newspapers in Warsaw had predicted war between Germany and Poland if the plebiscite gave Upper Silesia to Germany, but these were declared by the French Foreign Office to be merely journalistic interests and not worthy of consideration.

A Tampa dispatch of Friday, telling of the death of J. T. Mahoney was received in Daytona with great regret by his many friends in this city where he was well known through his activities in the Elks. Mr. Mahoney, in attempting to turn his car around on the Mallory docks to that city, ran over the edge of the dock and was drowned. EPISCOPAL CHURCH GIVES DINNER TO A NUMBER OF MEN

About 60 men sat down to an elaborate dinner tendered by St. Mary's Episcopal church at the Guild hall Thursday evening. The dinner was prepared by the ladies of the parish, the general object being to get members of the church and those interested in the church in closer touch with each other.

At the close of the dinner an address was delivered by the Rev. Dr. Wood, field secretary of the United States for the nation-wide campaign being conducted by the Episcopal church. The campaign is not so much a drive for funds as it is a movement to bring the various churches of the country and the members thereof in closer contact.

A splendidly pleasing treat for members of the congregation and those attending the community M. Week of employment. It has moved in spasmodically and unequally. But on the whole it has moved steadily and upward. But as one can promptly call the things happening, and yet this is what the Federal Reserve Board, operating on its wholly false economic and financial basis, has brought about.

When the Board began this campaign a year or more ago it seemed very evident to me that any intelligent man in the country who knew the plan would be absolutely certain that nothing but disaster could follow such drastic deflation. From the beginning I unceasingly opposed it and early last winter warned the Board and the country that this drastic campaign of deflation would mean drastic destruction of business.

The campaign has brought about a decrease of, at least $5,000,000,000 to $6,000,000,000 or more in the value of farm products of the country. It has cost the merchants and the manufacturers billions of dollars in the depression of their stocks and the disruption of business. It will cost the government several billions of dollars in loss of revenue from income taxes for the country this year will have very little profit out of which to pay excess profits taxes.

Not a single statement on the subject which I have made and reiterated week after week for the last ten fifteen months. I claim no gift of prophecy or twelve months has fallen of fully nor of special knowledge on the subject, for it has seemed to me that no man who had followed the history of the great wars of the world and of quick deflation thereafter could possibly see any other outcome than that which this country now faces.

We issued our $25,000,000,000 or so of bonds on a basis of high prices and high wages. By forcing drastic deflation and cutting down prices of farm products and of wages, the burden of indebtedness of the country has suddenly been doubled.

Speaking in terms of labor or of products it would take twice as much as cotton at 2 cents a pound as at 40 cents a pound to pay off the indebtedness incurred with 40-cent cotton. It would take twice as much wheat and corn to pay off the indebtedness at the prices prevailing when the bonds were issued. Therefore, the country has been saddled, measured in terms of production, or of labor, with a volume of indebtedness at least twice as great as that which shows on the face value of the bonds. We have thus by the drastic deflation of the banking interests represented by the Federal Reserve Board and other financial forces at work doubled the burden of the country in carrying our bonded indebtedness and a few weeks ago I published a statement from the First Federal Foreign Banking Association of New York that the League of Nations was carrying on a "world-wide campaign of deflation of credits" and the reports of the last few days show that the league is giving much attention to the discussion of the financial problems of the world.

If by its campaign of deflating the prices of products, cotton, corn, wheat and other things, can be reduced as has been done within the last two or three months, Europe can supply its needs of foodstuffs and cotton and other raw materials at a saving of several billions of dollars a year as compared with the prices which prevailed a few months ago. No wonder the League of Nations is interested in carrying out a "world-wide campaign of deflation." But the amazing thing is that the Federal Reserve Board which was organized for the express purpose of giving liquid credit to the farmers and the merchants and the manufacturers of America has for twelve months been engaged aggressively in a campaign to break down prices which of course mean lower wages, and millions of people thrown out of employment.

The question at issue, is one of the greatest that this country has ever faced because adequate credit to the farmer as well as to the merchants and manufacturers is absolutely essential if they are to continue business and employ labor. It is the giving assistance to prosperity. Curtail that credit and you take from all branches the nourishment without which it cannot live.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Robinson of Edmonton, Alberta, Canada, have arrived for the season and are the guests of their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Myers, at 109 Ocean avenue.

On Wednesday Mrs. C. A. Clark was hostess to a very delightful and informal party, given for her guest, Mrs. C. Clark, mother of Mr. Clark. Mrs. Clark will return today to her home in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Hare Fix of Lafayette, Ind., another sister-in-law, Mrs. Charles Fix of Boswell, Ind., have arrived to join their husbands here for the winter. They have attractive apartments at the corner of Main street and Grandview avenue.

Mrs. Delia Lockridge and Mrs. Jackson Stiver, from Liberty, Ind., have taken apartments for the season with Mrs. Alice Godsmark at 429 Halifax avenue, Seabreeze. This is the first season that these ladies have spent on the east coast and they seem appreciative of our wonderful climate and ocean scenery on the peninsula.

Owing to the fact that this House could disappear, as though it had flowed into a sewer in so short a time, two views are taken by the prohibition enforcement division here in regard to recent decision of the supreme court in the William G. Street case, in which Street was permitted to withdraw his liquor from a New York commercial warehouse for personal use.

One view is that the internal revenue bureau should open wide the flood gates and let the liquor be withdrawn from the warehouses as quickly as possible. The other opinion is that the bureau should construe the right to withdraw liquor for personal use in cases exactly like the Street case, and draw the lines still tighter around the booze in the bonded warehouses.

The view taken by John Kramer is that the booze in the warehouses
